Oh, how I'll miss my friend, Jorge!

I always looked forward to seeing him at whatever wrestling event we were all at. My family and I were happy to be around him and always wanted to extend the time by hanging out talking or over pizza.

I have always been grateful and impressed for how talented he was at making people feel comfortable quickly- this was awesome for new wrestlers and new families. It was so him to put up a rough and tough front, but this guy had a heart of gold.

A few of my favorite memories of Jorge are how he'd grab the Where's Waldo book that I'd brought to tournaments for the kids and get busy searching for that red and white striped sweater, get down playing Clash of Clans with my boys, how he loved to hold babies and just how fun he always was.

He was a true friend that listened to issues I was having at work or with my kiddos, then offered real, honest advice and guidance. He challenged me and my thinking, which earned my trust and loyalty. I respected him and his dedication to his family and the kids that he coached. I loved him for the kindness and support that he showed my boys, my husband and me. He has been a pivotal person in all of our lives. I'm thankful that Jorge and his family have been in our lives, and I'm so sorry for the loss of this awesome guy.

My deepest condolences to his family.
